

Positive Psychology was founded in 2008 with a vision to contribute to positive change, growth and wellbeing in our community.

Today, our diverse team is recognised by over 1,500 referring GPs and specialists in Melbourne.

About Positive Psychology

Equipped to address your needs

Positive Psychology works with all types of people to address all types of issues.

From mental health, addictions and trauma to family violence/conflict, careers, assessments and reporting, we have the specialist skills and experience you're looking for.

Convenient, inclusive and welcoming

At Positive Psychology, we offer home visits, after-hour and weekend appointments, as well as a family-friendly environment to ensure children feel welcome.

Many of our practitioners speak second languages and can cater for clients who speak languages other than English, or work with interpreters.

Qualified clinicians, researchers and mentors

We have many highly experienced psychologists across our clinics – all with different backgrounds, specialisations and approaches. Several members of our team are also active and published researchers.

Positive Psychology also mentors psychology students and holds professional development workshops and lectures for other psychologists.

Accredited providers

Our psychologists are all registered Medicare providers, which entitles eligible patients to rebates for up to 10 sessions (per calendar year) at our practice.

Positive Psychology is also an accredited provider of:

- + TAC, Work Cover, Victims of Crime and Veteran Affairs
- + Court reports and expert witnessing
- + Employee Assistance Programs (EAP) for business and organisations

The Positive Psychology Difference

At Positive Psychology, we believe that a patient's wellbeing is largely dependent on a congruent match with their psychologist. And research demonstrates that the therapeutic relationship contributes to the therapy outcome (at least) as much as the treatment method used.

That's why we have a Client Intake Coordinator who is dedicated to matching new patients with the psychologist most suited to them.

Our Client Intake Coordinator conducts in-depth over-the-phone interviews with all new patients (or their GP, family member or other health professional if deemed appropriate). Once we understand the client's specific issues, preferences and expectations, we make a considered recommendation.

That said, if a client feels that the psychologist we have recommended is not the right match, we'll help find another option.
